May 14, 1958

Four members of the faculty will retire as professors emeriti at the end of this academic year after long and devoted service to the Institute. It is gratifying that three of them, Leicester F. George C. Manning, Professor in Naval Architecture, who has been on leave of absence for the past year in order to serve as Head of the new Department of Naval Architecture at the University of Sao Paulo in Brazil, will also retire officially from the Institute this year.
