Welcome back! The MIT Libraries have been working hard during your summer vacation. Here are some of the new things you can look forward to this fall:

New resources

Have a smart phone? Now you can go to the MIT Mobile Web at m.mit.edu/libraries to search for books in Barton, request them for pick-up, and renew the books you already have! Also, find library hours and submit questions or comments. We'll add the same capabilities to the MIT Mobile app for Android and iPhone soon!

New guide for use of images
If you’re wondering how you can appropriately use and cite images (and other content) to avoid plagiarism or copyright infringement, check out a new guide at libguides.mit.edu/usingimages, which also offers hints on finding images that are openly available.

Need help managing your data? Our Research Data Management Team can help. Get assistance with creating NSF data management plans, attend workshops or schedule an individual consultation. See libguides.mit.edu/finding-data or contact us at data-management@mit.edu

Working with geospatial data? Download new ESRI ArcGIS 10 software and improved MIT Geodata Search Tool for ArcGIS at: ist.mit.edu/services/software/esri/10. Explore and map detailed US business data; Boston, Cambridge and New York parcel data; and a host of other great geospatial information. Find GIS lab hours, workshops and more at: libraries.mit.edu/gis/

Share videos securely
MIT TechTV has integrated with MIT Touchstone to allow for single sign-on as well as security and viewing restrictions easily set up using WebMoira. Use this to securely share videos with other students, your professors, lab-mates, etc. quickly and easily.

Libraries hours and study space

Upgrades to the Hayden group study room
The Hayden Library group study room (14E-311) is now equipped with a touch-screen reservation system and new video conferencing equipment. View the room schedule on the device outside the room to check availability or reserve through your online calendar.

Coming soon—more study space
Look for a new study area opening this fall on the 8th floor of Barker Library.

Longer hours return
Regular fall hours resume on Tuesday, September 6. See: libguides.mit.edu/hours.

New FAQs for circulation & course reserves
Find answers to all your questions about borrowing at libraries.mit.edu/circ and libraries.mit.edu/reserves

We value your input!
Questions? libraries.mit.edu/ask
Ideas or Comments? libraries.mit.edu/tell

Upcoming events

Music & Theater Arts Composer Forums
Throughout the fall term the Lewis Music Library will host MTA Composer Forums. The first begins October 20 at 5pm with Tod Machover talking about his recent non-operatic work, the new CD, ...but not simpler... Julia Wolfe is featured on November 10, John Harbison on November 21 and Terry Riley on December 12.
